Thank you for considering work in the heart of British Columbia's Fraser Valley. Well known for its outdoor activities, social life and cultural events, Chilliwack is where families want to raise their children, seniors want to retire and our young adults know they can make a successful start in life.

With a contingent of approximately 100 physicians, our team prides itself on collegiality, respectfulness and plain old getting-the-job-done. We are a group of full-service family practitioners and specialists who work closely together, meeting the health care needs of our community.

You are invited to challenge your career by teaching family practice residents and medical students. Our family doctors have the choice of participating in the full spectrum of family practice from surgical assists to obstetrics and emergency. Our specialists enjoy equal access to professional resources and are encouraged to lead full and productive private lives as well.

We offer leading edge technology, non-elitist atmosphere, workplace respect and opportunities for University of British Columbia affiliation.

We work together, enjoy each other's company and our CME program is rich with opportunities.

I invite you to become a part of our community and our team.
